They come from EVERYWHERE to park at Triple Creek!

Look at this purple RV that showed up one day. While it may be a strange color for an RV, the people that came with it were a bunch of fun. It was Sam and Judy in this rig. Nice folk that came out our way after traveling a great distance from Onalaska (50 miles). Judy said he came home with the purple paint, and just got after painting it without consulting her.

Remember Charles?

As you know, we have been looking for a lovingly affectionate name to refer to him by. The name of "Charles" just did not seem appropriate for a fellow that is so connected with nature. No, if he was going to live at Triple Creek, he needed a name that is more in line with his real charisma. As you know, we have been working on this for a while, and finally Royce hit upon a winner. We now refer to Charles as "Lewis and Clark", or just "LC" for short. If you remember your history, Lewis and Clark was the first expedition to cross what is now the western portion of the United States. Well LC has been exploring all around Triple Creek. He and "Deadwood" Dan have found all kinds of artifacts that are now in the Jam Shack. Take a look at what they have found and then just envision what animals were around Triple Creek hundreds of years ago. Step back in time with LC!

WHAT IS IT?

Ya' know, we're not sure what it is, but we got it! Actually, we are planning on making a koi pond with this. Who knows, this might be a project for Charles and Lois who put in the first pond there by the office. We consider their pond a GREAT start, but with this pond, we can really grow some fish. We think that it could be cut length wise, and then have each half be part of a pond. One part would stair step into the other. Its going to look absolutely great when its all installed.

WHAT'S UP?

Triple Creek now has a bucket truck to aid in keeping all those night lights lit and those tree limbs trimmed. While intended to be a one man bucket, these two really skinny people filled the bucket and used it to install the first light that is now shining. The editor thinks they were having a good time up there, as the installation time was about 4 hours, and that seems a little excess. Not only that, but there was a lot of giggling. However, it is up and shining, so the job has been completed as planned. Watch for further activity. By the way, this is Dan and Jamie up there in the bucket. Both live at Triple Creek.

Who is This? Marc and Karen don't have any children of their own, so after interviewing many, we decided that we will take Jeremy to raise. Well that didn't last long, as he soon decided that he was all grown up and wanted to get married. Here is a picture of the happy couple. We went to the gala event and since it was outside, Marc did not feel compelled to wear shoes. Oh what a relief. Great son married a wonderful bride. We got some terrific in-laws in the deal. Neither of them play any musical instruments, but that is going to have to change if they are going to become part of the triple creek family. Since they are young, they will be getting involved with our bluegrass before we know it. The only problem is that they live up north, so we can't keep a watch on them.

Well,, its not a new year yet, but once again Triple Creek is planning for a smashing New Year's party. The Dirt Road Express will once again provide the dance music and have invited Lil Teri to return to Triple Creek to entertain with her variety of music and comedy.

Looks like we will also have some other special guests that will be on stage as well. Fred will be on the drums, and more than likely we might even have Jackie on the pedal steel. Make plans to come out and have a good time. We promise to have the ol' wood stove cranked up so it will be HOT time in the Jam Shack that night.. Be sure and bring your dancing shoes! Expect some really good tunes with hot licks to come out of this group. Not only that, but Lil Teri is quite the comedian. She is ready to tell her jokes and stories to keep you laugh-

Look who is new to Triple Creek.

We are proud to introduce to you the newest of residents to Triple Creek... Robert and Barbara Anderson. They were kind of wandering through one weekend, when Pat and Floyd said they would like to move on. Well just two days later the Anderson's had purchased the place that was Pat and Floyds. Welcome to Triple Creek!! Now don't worry about Pat and Floyd, they decided to move into something more mobile so they are now living in a motor home that they can park at Floyds mom's there in Cleveland...if that is ever needed. They aren't far, and their heart is still at Triple Creek. They still play and sing at Triple Creek almost every weekend.

Fish Stocking!

If you haven't taken a look around the park lately, the new lake is filled with water. It has been stocked with fish, and the little pond by the windmill has also been stocked with fish. Our intention is to place an automatic feeder at each location, so the fish can grow to an enjoyable catching size. Right now, they are a little small, but eventually, they will be grown. To make things better we have a grass eating carp installed in the little pond. These carp are supplied by the state of Texas and we had to meet certain restrictions. We were given a permit for one of these carp, but according to calculations, this one fish should be able to eat all the green stuff off the top of that little pond and keep it clean. Grass carp feast on invasive weeds, including hydrilla, duckweed and Eurasian milfold. The greenery-loving fish also eat water hyacinth, cattails and water lilies. When food becomes scarce, they will even reach up to nibble on vegetation along the shore.

EGGS—Fresh eggs—Get em here!

Here are some pictures of Karen's egg crop. She is getting up to 48 eggs a day. If you need fresh yard eggs, please see Karen. As shown, the come in all colors. Some are white, others brown, and then there are those that are blue/green.

Winnaway Bed & Breakfast
